Fr. Emmanuel Barla, S.J. Awarded D. Lit (900) By Michaelsj on 08-April-2013 Ranchi April 8:

For those of us, who have not heard much about Fr. Emmanuel, it is a pleasant surprise that he has been recently conferred a degree of D. Lit. A professor in the department of Political Science in St. Xaviers College Ranchi, Fr. Manu is a quiet worker. His achievement took his near and dear ones by surprise. Mention was made in the last Province Gathering about his recent book which he got published. He is a keen student of the tribal progress and politics. He is not found proclaiming about himself as any kind of expert, but surely, Fr. Manu wants his works to speak for himself. St. Xavier's College community members celebrated the achievement of Fr. Manu in an informal gathering. Congrats Fr. Manu. Keep us surprising.

Poor turnout for Ranchi Municipality Elections a sign of dwindling Hope (901) By Michaelsi on 09-April-2013 Ranchi April 9.:

Ranchi: April 9. According to the media reports, there was a very poor turnout for the municipality elections in Ranchi city. As per one estimate, only 38 percent voting was registered. Many people did not come out to vote despite holiday being declared by the local administration, whilst some rued the fact that many names were missing from the voters list. Some even found that their normal booths had been changed. People returned without voting. The local administration will have to take cognizance of this anomaly, if they want a better percent of voting.

Meanwhile just before the polling day police arrested two Congress leaders from a hotel who were in possession of huge amount of unaccounted money. Ms. Rama Xalxo, the Congress supported candidate for the post of Mayor was a suspect along with Mr. Subodh Kant Sahay the local Congress M.P. This left a bad taste amongst the voters, who find that no matter what the claims or counter claims might be, there is a lot of money involved in election and position of power.

The Catholic community followed the election campaign with great amount of interest as three serious Catholic contenders were in the race for Mayor. The Christian areas in general saw adequate response for voting, as has always been the case. In order to build up the consensus among the Christian communities, specific contacts of the tola samities played important role. Since the Christian vote is not sufficient to tilt vote in favour of any candidate, what can be a winning alliance is always a tricky question. Obviously, there was no issue which would tilt votes in this municipality election. People in general do not expect much either from the Mayor or the ward members. They are not aware of the powers vested with the office proper. It was only therefore a question of how any candidate saw the possibility of uniting the communities and second forging alliances with other communities.

Exchange Programme with Antwerp University (902) By Michaelsi on 11-April-2013

Ranchi April, 11: Dr. Rohit Kumar Vishal was given a warm Bon Voyage from his colleagues in XISS as he left for Antwerp University where he will be attending a three-week programme in research on the question of Human Rights. Antwerp University has a regular exchange programme with XISS for students and faculty. Dr. Rohit Vishal is a Faculty of Marketing Department and has his expertise in statistics. This year however, for the first time, two Rural Management students will be going there for a similar course. XISS regularly receives five to eight students from this university. It will be essential to mention here that for the B-School ranking in India, exchange with foreign universities is an important criterion. XISS will have to enter into formal collaboration with many such universities.

Pinch of Loss (906) By Ranjit on 16-April-2013

Ranchi 16th April 13: After seeking constitutional opinion on the recovery of Rs. 22.65 lakh from a city hotel, where several leaders of Congress Party were meeting, a day ahead of the Municipality elections, the State Election Commission has cancelled the poll for the post of Mayor in Ranchi. It is a big setback for the candidates who must have worked very hard for campaign. Going for re-election would mean additional fund. Candidates not being supported by any political party would find it all the more difficult to contest. Congress Party and BJP have welcomed the move of the State Election Commission but Bandhu Tirkey from Janadhikar Party is of the opinion, if polls had to be cancelled, it had to be done immediately after the recovery of money, a day ahead of the poll. He also alleged that since the seat is reserved for a ST candidate, major parties are not raising any question to the decision. The voter turnout was itself a big issue as many people did not show much interest in the process.

Meanwhile from Gumla Mr. Dheerendera Prasad, a BJP supported candidate has won on the seat of Mayor. Mr. Rajneel Tigga was the sitting Mayor who contested again. Due to lack of support from JMM party, the vote got divided. Similarly, Phul Sundari, a BJP candidate has managed to get re-elected in Simdega. Enos Ekka supported candidate was no where this time. Church looked very divided. The same story was in Khunti where Rani Tuti, supported by Karia Munda BJP won the seat of Mayor. Since, Neelkanth Munda, BJP MLA also fielded a candidate, the BJP vote was supposed to get divided, but even then Churches could not get united. Pawan Tigga seemingly an independent won from Lohardaga.

There has not been any review meeting or planning for the next election. People do feel the pinch of such loss but do not know how to get back to the track which would help political empowerment of the people. There are also detractors, who have serious objection to any involvement of the church in politics.

POPE FRANCIS: ONE MONTH, FULL OF SURPRISES (908) By Prem on 18-April-2013

ROME 18 APRIL 2013: The election of Pope Francis came as a great surprise to many. Taking the amount of endless discussions, speculations and predictions into account before and during the Conclave regarding the would-be-Pope, many did not expect Fumata Bianca (white smoke) on the second day of the Conclave. Then the emergence of Pope Francis from the balcony of St. Peters Basilica, a person from the end of the world, took many by surprise. The first surprise was evident from a brief hushed silence when the name was announced followed by the eruption of euphoric applauses and cheers. The next surprise came when he greeted the cheering crowd with simple yet fascinating common words in Italian, Fratelli e sorelle, buona sera (Brothers and Sisters, Good Evening). The greatest of all surprises of that evening was his humble gesture of bowing before the faithful and asking for their prayers to bless him as their Bishop, Let us pray silently, your prayers for me.

Many more surprises have been springing forth from his simplicity, humility and affective proximity to the faithful mingling with the crowd, shaking hands warmly without any inhibition, kissing children and physically challenged persons, exchanging gifts and signs of affection. During the Public Audience of Wednesday 17 April, he even exchanged his white Papal skullcap (zucchetto) with a pilgrim and wore it until the end of the Audience.

Among the many surprises, a sweet surprise was in store also for us. On 16 March, barely 3 days after the election of Pope Francis, we were invited by His Eminence Telesphore P. Cardinal Toppo to accompany him for a private audience with the Holy Father. Three Seminarians from Ranchi Archdiocese Pradeep Ekka, Tobias Toppo and Gulshan Minj, and two Jesuits Linus and myself accompanied His Eminence to the room in Casa Santa Marta, where the newly elected Pope Francis was residing. With his kind and loving gestures, he made us feel at home immediately. After greeting each one of us very cordially and affectionately, he exhorted us to be faithful and steadfast in our mission to be able to serve worthily the vibrant Church of India without ever being afraid of taking up the crosses of daily life. His Eminence presented a beautiful Jharkhandi silk handicraft to His Holiness as a sign of love from the people of India, and of Jharkhand in particular. To our surprise, before imparting his apostolic blessing on us, he asked us to pray for him. He accompanied His Eminence and the entourage unto the elevator to see off. A great surprise which has left a permanent imprint on our hearts!

The final surprise at the end of the first month of his Pontificate came in the form of the naming of the eight Cardinals from around the globe to advise him on running the Church affairs and reforming the Vatican bureaucracy. Definitely all eyes are fixed on him his words, gestures, movements, initiatives and decisions. But like all others, we place our trust in Gods ways that just as He inspired the Cardinals to elect Pope Francis from the end of the world. He will also bring to completion the ends of the Church, the body of Christ.

Master Plan for Ranchi Municipal Area: a big debate (909) By Ranjit on 20-April-2013 Ranchi 20th April:

In the recent development conflict is the newly proposed Master Plan for Ranchi Municipality Corporation, which is being drawn in view of 2037. A Noida based company has been given the task of drawing the master plan of the city. Obviously, keeping in the mind the population growth and requirement of the civic amenities, the current demarcation of the municipality has been extended up to 100 more villages. Obviously, the villagers are not aware of such expansion. The architects and city planners have been expressing their views on the proposal and most obvious critique has been that the Noida based company has taken the satellite view for the plan and has not taken the CNT character of land apart from the historical and cultural dimension of the city. What will happen to the villages in the Master Plan has not been made clear. 20th April has been put as the last day for registering any complaint or suggestion. Meanwhile, Adivasi groups have decided to oppose the plan in entirety as the basic premises with which such plans should be developed has not been taken into consideration. Sri Binod Kispotta has registered a complaint that the matters on the web site or any other way must be put in Hindi so that ordinary people understand the nature of proposal. It is learnt that due to heavy lobbying of the business communities having shops in certain areas, the proposed plan of flyovers have been squashed in this plan. The Master Plan should have waited for the declaration of the result of the Municipality Elections. www.ranchimunicipal.com
